

WXPB Student Experience

“Over the past ten weeks, I have researched, pitched, and rewritten news stories about the music industry, science, business, technology, and local politics under the direction of my supervisor, Bob Bumbera, who reads my news copy over the air during the Morning Show. I first applied for this internship because I was interested in audio journalism, and I hoped to one day work for a podcast or radio station. I had very little experience with working in audio and no experience writing about music before starting this position, and I was anxious about performing well. At the end of my ten weeks, I can confidently say that I have learned a lot about the broadcast industry, the music industry, and writing news for radio, thanks in large part to the guidance and advice of my supervisor
